Outlook and Recommendations:

The company inherited the primary micro-finance business from BSFL in 2015 and over the years Bandhan has shown its ability in maintaining high profitability and asset quality. However, the golden era for Bandhan has been phased out as it has transformed itself from primary micro finance company to being a Pan India bank. As of 31st December,2017 the Net interest Margin were 10.36% which is twice the average of the listed peers. Unsecured lending is one of the primary reasons for the high net interest margin as 96% of the loan book of the bank consists of unsecured lending. The CASA ratio stands at 33.2% which is below the industry average. Further, the asking P/BV (post-listing 4.9x) is neck to neck when compared with leading larger peers like HDFC (trading at approx 5x) and others. Thus, based on the above the IPO seems to be highly fairly priced. The IPO would be a high risk one with not much to offer for the retail clients. The IPO would be an avoid, however we should rather wait post listing to get the shares at discounted price.
