

NIFTY (Weekly)

The week that went by:

Indian Market started the new financial year on a strong note with a 40 points gap-up opening. Post the minor dip in the morning session, Index continued to surge higher for the rest of the day; well supported by Pharma stocks. On day2, Post the weak opening of 20-25 points. Index successfully tested its 200DMA and bounced. Nifty remained in the narrow range for the most of the time but late buying across the board has been witnessed which helped Index to end the in a high note. On Wednesday, Post the decent opening, Index failed to hold its higher levels and started to shed-off its gains. Sudden sell-off was witnessed on the news of continuation of trade war between US and China. On Thursday, Trade war fear eased out; US market recovered all its losses and ended the day with gains. Indian market followed suite with a gap-up opening of 100 points. Index managed to hold its gains and extended its gains post the quo status decision by MPC committee. On the last day of the week, Nifty started its day with a mild weakness and remained range bound until the last session where wild swings on both the side has been observed. Broader Market outperformed the Major Indices.
